Meandering Along the Main Stem

By WASH FAYETTE
During two or three recent motoring trips I have noticed that most of the vehicles that pass me on the road while I am driving 35 miles or slightly under, are trucks, and invariably there is every reason to believe they are not hauling war goods.

A large percentage of automobiles which have passed me at speeds of 45 to 60 miles, over week ends, are driven by boys and girls under 20—the drivers apparently giving no thought to the government order of not over 35 miles an hour, and the penalty of no tires when they call for more.

Approximately 85 percent of the drivers are following the government war order of not over 35 miles.

The scarlet oaks with their brilliant colors, are now at their best in the hill regions, and wherever these oaks grow the hills are aglow with scarlet, while the intermingling light yellows, burnt orange and two or three other shades make a beautiful picture.

However, not all of the hills are adorned with the brilliant hues of the scarlet oak, for most of the trees have shed their leaves and the trees are nearly bare of the beautiful garb that adorned them a short time ago.

Right now the Pike County hills in the region of Morgantown, and the area about Spangville, southeast of Bainbridge, are ablaze with the scarlet oak, and well worth driving that distance to see.

During the past few years I have heard the Star Spangled Banner played and sung under various circumstances, by some of the greatest orchestras in the world; by bands, and sung by audiences from a few hundred to 12,000—but it remained for a lone bugler to give me the greatest thrill of all by playing it.

It was a wonderful morning in August, and I was aboard the Canadian steamship Noronic which carried the British flag, and a crowd of us stood on the forward deck as the big Great Lakes liner passed up the St. Marys River toward the famous locks at the "Soo."

On the starboard side was Canada and on the port side was the pine-covered shore of Michigan—America, if you please. A light snow had been falling regardless of the fact that it was August, and the sun had burst forth from clouds in the east and painted a brilliant rainbow across the black clouds to the westward—a rarity so early in the morning.

As our big boat plowed through the water and rounded a headland some 300 yards from the boat, an American flag was floating high on a staff, and the lone bugler took his place beneath the flag.

As we were nearly opposite the headland the bugler started playing the Star Spangled banner, and the notes of the national anthem swept out across the waters to us, the merry chatter stopped; hats came off instantly and we all stood at attention until the last notes died away as we passed on up the broad expanse of the beautiful St. Marys River.

FAMILY OF SIX DIE IN FLAMING HOME

Dr. H. M. Wellman, Clarion County coroner, reported the victims were Mr. and Mrs. John Huefner and their four children, ranging in age from one to six years.

OHIO CHOOSES OFFICIALS

Twenty-eight States Holding Elections for Governor And Other Officials

Fayette Countians went to the polls Tuesday to select local and state officials and a man to represent them in the national congress, but all election day indications pointed to one of the lightest votes in years in both city and county.

The campaigning of the past few weeks did not lack for steam generated by the candidates, but all the hurrah failed to stir up more than the mildest sort of interest among the voters.

The candidates themselves admitted their toughest job had been to get people to listen to their stories. The barrage of printers' ink they laid down during the closing days of the battle came nearer jolting the voters out of their apathy than anything else, but there were no indications that this had aroused the voters to any great extent.

Reports at the noon hour Tuesday, indicated that the vote in Fayette County would be much lighter than usual. In some instances only one-fifth of the total vote in some precincts had been polled.

Voting in the rural precincts was expected to be lighter than in this city.

Public Apathy
Aside from the public apathy, the wartime exodus of voters, observers said, could not help but make a big dent in the election totals. More than 1,000 men have gone into the country's armed forces from the city and county and while the polls were not exactly closed to them, few took the time or trouble to cast their ballots. In addition, it was pointed out, there are hundreds of both men and women employed in war plants, here and in other cities, for whom voting would be an inconvenience that they were not expected to try to overcome. Preoccupation with the war was blamed for the general indifference to political affairs.

Fayette County voters had plenty of contests to give them food for thought if they had been inclined to think along political lines. And, discounting prejudices, competent observers were predicting some of the keenest competition in years, in spite of

Unable To Shoot Tough American Bomber Down, They Try Bombs

HEADQUARTERS OF U. S. FORCES IN THE SOUTH PACIFIC, Oct. 28—(Delayed)—(P)—Unable to down a single Flying Fortress with their machine-guns and cannon in two months of aerial warfare in the Solomons, the Japs are trying a new technique—bombing the bombers.

Jap Zero float (pontoons) planes have been flying about 1,000 feet above the fortresses over Guadalcanal and trying to drop bombs on them in the air. So far, not a hit has been scored, and American gunners, wise to the trick, have found the Zeros easy targets at that distance.

9 Jap Warships Sunk In Battle for Solomons That Lasted 40 Minutes

PEARL HARBOR, Nov. 3—(P)—American naval guns sank two and possibly nine Japanese warships in the Solomons the night of October 11-12 in an engagement described here by Captain Ernest Gregor Small as "a hell of a melee" which completely surprised the enemy.

"We sank one heavy cruiser and believe we got two others and one light cruiser, and we know we sank one destroyer and probably four others," he said.

The encounter took place on a calm, moonless night in the Salvo Island area. It was in this same area that the heavy cruisers Astoria, Quincy and Vincennes were sunk in a Japanese surprise attack last August 8-9.

"Within four minutes, I saw our Salvos going in like red box cars on a Jap heavy cruiser, plunging right into her and she sank said Captain Small. "It was like seeing a prize fighter getting socked on the chin, then shake and just drop cold."

"We caught them at a five mile range and hit some ships before they could open fire. One had its guns trained fore and aft. It was one of those things naval officers wait 20 years to see."

"I can best describe this night action for the layman as a Fourth of July fireworks lasting 40 minutes and its conclusion like the dying set pieces burning out."

"The action was in spurts of from three to 10 minutes with both forces moving at top speed."

After the engagement, Captain Small said, the battle area "became just a field of burning ships."

He praised the crew of his cruiser for "their showing of courage and perfect reaction to training." One of the men at a five inch gun was hit by a shell fragment which cut open his stomach and cut off part of his hand but "kept his gun pointers matched and fired four telling salvos, then just died. Another, a shell loader, was hit by a fragment but "kept the shells coming for the guns until he dropped dead."

CINCINNATI STRIKE ENDS--PAY RAISED

Labor Department Scale Used In Settlement

CINCINNATI, Nov. 3—(P)—City waterworks, waste collection and street department employees ended a six-day-old strike today, and gas company maintenance crews who walked out Friday received a settlement proposal.

City employees local 211 of the United Construction Workers (UMW) last night agreed to return to work today, accepting a pay-raise offer.

The strikers, originally asked 25 percent wage increases and later agreed to accept boosts equal to U. S. Department of Labor cost-of-living increase percentages for the year ended last October 1.

The increases approved last night were four cents an hour for 869 hourly wage workers, about equal to $80-a-year boosts granted 3,910 salaried employees.

Desert Tanks Clash

Allies Launch Fierce Assault on Axis on Egypt's Desert When Rommel Attempts To Rescue Trapped German Force; Trap Had Been Set and Nazi General Wades into It

By EDWARD KENNEDY
CAIRO, Nov. 3—(P)—British tanks in force have clashed with Field Marshal Rommel's vaunted African Corps in the biggest tank battle of the 11-day-old Allied drive in Egypt with fighting swirling around Tel El Aka-kir—the hill of wicked men—where the British infantry assault has knifed 16 miles deep into the Axis defense zone.

(Reuters reported that a Berlin broadcast attributed to DNE said Lieut. Gen. B. L. Montgomery had thrown some 500 tanks into "the greatest tank battle of the whole African campaign.")

The scene is one of the highest points along the center of the present tight-hemmed battlezone between the Mediterranean and the Qattara salt marshes.

It is 16 miles beyond the long-stabilized defense line through the ridges southwest of El Amamein, and represented a gain of several artillery barrages during the hours just before the tank clash developed yesterday at dawn.

The infantry won a position which partly pocketed a considerable Axis force.

That was when Rommel sent his long-reserved armor into action—and that was the moment for which the British had prepared. Their own tanks stormed into the fight, and the first big scale test of armored might was underway.

The Australians who spearheaded the initial British thrust along the coastal rail line where Axis forward forces were hemmed in against the sea bore the brunt of Rommel's desperate tank assault for the relief of his trapped troops.

The British tank onslaught, in turn, eased the pressure on the Australians and permitted the imperial land forces to continue their mop up.

Battlefront dispatches said numerous German tanks were knocked out in the clash of steel, while elsewhere the battlezone was strewn in places with the bodies of Germans who tried vainly to escape the trap.

This pocket, was between Tel El Eisa and Sidi Adb El Rahman, about 18 miles west of El Alamein.

Light naval units of the British Mediterranean fleet also struck out during the past week in operations against the enemy's shore position to the rear of his lines. A navy communique issued at Alexandria said that fire was exchanged with the shore defenses by the naval craft and that all returned to their base without damage or casualties despite air attacks.

Today's communique said the new edge was termed "an important advance."

Possibly indicating that the Allied tank forces had swarmed through the breach thus made in minefields and artillery positions, the communique added:

"An armored battle on a considerable scale developed and continued all day. Heavy fighting continues."

(London dispatches said "with the shift of the main weight of the Allied attack southward there is a feeling in London that anything might happen now that armored units apparently have pushed through Rommel's static defenses and perhaps are loose on the other side.")

(Axis communiques, particularly the Italian, stressed even more than did the British the violence of the combat between the sea and the Qattara depression about 80 miles west of Alexandria.

The heavy fighting in the coastal sector on Sunday night apparently consisted of thrusts by enemy armored forces both within and without the pocket

China's Foreign Minister Reassured by Visit to U. S.

CHUNGKING, Nov. 3—(P)—Foreign Minister T. V. Soong said today at his first press conference since arriving from Washington that he had left the United States with "a full and complete assurance of victory in the not distant future."

He said he had come back to China with the impression that "the greatest difficulties are over—the worst has passed. I left with a feeling of restrained optimism."

He said he was struck by the tremendous energies of the United States.

"America is building a great army, a tough army, an unbeatable army," he declared.

Announcing that he would go to England in the near future and would pay a visit to Russia as soon as he had the opportunity, Soong emphasized that China has no territorial ambitions but wants to recover her own territory "such as Manchuria and Formosa."

REDS FACING NEW THREAT

Germans, However, Driven Out of Several Sections Of Battered Stalingrad

By ROGER D. GREENE
Allied offensives were driving the enemy into retreat on three key fronts of World War II today—on Guadalcanal Island, in New Guinea and in Egypt—while the Russians still held fast in the 71-day-old siege of Stalingrad.

These were the highlights as news tickers recounted some of the most heartening United Nations successes of the war:

BATTLE OF EGYPT—Lieut. Gen. B. L. Montgomery's British 8th army was officially reported to have made an important advance on the El Alamein front, 80 miles west of Alexandria, and crushed a series of heavy Axis attacks along the Mediterranean coast.

Military dispatches said Nazi Marshal Erwin Rommel's left flank had been mutilated, with approximately 2,500 Axis troops caught in a coastal pocket 16 miles west of El Alamein.

SOLOMON ISLANDS THEATER—An American offensive to drive Japan's invasion hordes into the sea was apparently underway in the jungle-clad hills of Guadalcanal today as U. S. Marines, supported by a terrific aerial assault, hammered the enemy farther away from the island's prize air field.

Swiftly following up the withdrawal of the Japanese fleet, which was heavily damaged in a sea-air battle October 26, American "Devil Dog" fighters were reported to have driven Japanese troops back two miles in one sector, while U. S. Flying Fortresses, dive bombers and fighter planes strafed the enemy throughout the area.

A bulletin from Italian field headquarters acknowledged that Axis losses were heavy in a battle still raging over the desert sands between the Mediterranean and the Qattara Depression.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters reported Australian troops were pushing on toward the Japanese base at Buna after capturing the enemy's chief inland base at Kokoda yesterday.

As the "Aussies" surged ahead, a Japanese convoy headed for New Guinea was forced to turn back today by Flying Fortresses and B-25's which attacked in the face of intense anti-aircraft fire and enemy aerial resistance.

(The repulse of the Japanese convoy off Buna was reported in a communique from Gen. MacArthur's headquarters which said 7,000 Japanese soldiers aboard the ships had been intended to reinforce the New Guinea positions.)

In three attacks, the Allied fliers scored many near hits on two transports loaded with approximately 7,000 Japanese troops and left one of them in flames off Gasmata, New Britain.

RUSSIAN FRONT—Fresh Soviet gains in the 10-weeks-old siege of Stalingrad partly offset a new Red army withdrawal on the Nalchik plateau where strong German armored columns were driving the Russians back.

A conglomerate force of 50,000 German and Rumanian mountain infantry, armored troops and sailors edged forward today in a narrow sector southeast of Nalchik, but the enemy was reported on the defensive in other parts of that flaming Caucasus battle-front.

The main Nazi thrust, which has forced a Red army withdrawal from Nalchik itself, apparently was aimed at Ordzhonikidze, some

Bucks Tumble To No. 6 Spot In Grid Poll

By HAROLD CLAASSEN
NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Georgia not only defeated Alabama Saturday but it convinced the nation's sports writers that it is the best college football team in the land.

-Spying- On Sports

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.
NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—(AP)—You don't hear so much about the "T" formation as a cure-all for football troubles this season, but the Shaughnessy-Halas system still is giving the grid coaches plenty to worry about. At the weekly egg-and-coffee session of the local football writing fraternity yesterday Major Harvey "Jabbo" Jablon-sky, Army assistant coach, voiced the plaintive suggestion that he'd welcome information on how Notre Dame's "T" could be stopped. . . . Bernie Moore of Louisiana State had one answer: "The way to beat this 'T' formation is just not to play anybody that uses it." . . . Lou Oshins tossed in the information that the "T" can be stopped, because his Brooklyn College team uses it and hasn't been anything but stopped. . . . And the Giants' Jack Mara, with a nod toward Sunday's clash between Mike Getto's Brooklyn Dodgers and the Bears, remarked: "Mike had better try an O. D. T. defense." . . . By the way, with all these variations of the "T" that have been tried, has anyone come up with a "strip T's" formation?

On the Ground Floor
Pvt. Mickey McConnell of Fort Knox, Ky., former secretary of the Dodgers farm system, offers this proof of Branch Rickey's ability as a promoter. . . . When Rickey first took hold in St. Louis, says Mickey, his wife discovered that their best rug was missing. . . . "I took it down to the office," Rickey sheepishly explained. "Several of the city's most influential men were coming out for a conference and I wanted the place to look prosperous."

One-Minute Sports Page
The only Georgian on the Alabama squad that took a licking from the Crackers Saturday was Jim McWhorter, whose uncle is mayor of Athens, Ga.

following their defeat by Wisconsin, 17 to 7.

Georgia Tech, another undefeated power, moved from fifth to third while Notre Dame retained its grasp on fourth place.

The undefeated Dixie Bulldogs snared 84 5-6 first place votes out of a possible 127 today and bounded into first place in the weekly Associated Press poll, replacing Ohio State.

The Buckeyes, leaders for three straight weeks, sank to sixth following their defeat by Wisconsin, 17 to 7.

No Changes Planned in Buck Lineup

COLUMBUS, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Coach Paul Brown plans to start against Pittsburgh Saturday the same Ohio State football lineup that faced Wisconsin with the exception of left end, but he indicated today that little Tommy James, 165-pound halfback from Massillon, would see a lot of service.

Hunting a "break" runner—one who is a constant touchdown threat—Brown said James probably would be given an opportunity to demonstrate his offensive as well as defensive talents against the Panthers. James was the only Buck who could consistently halt Elroy "Ghost" Hirsch of the Badgers Saturday and the Massillon red-head also turned in some nifty running.

James, who tips the scales at no more than 165 pounds, has been alternating at left halfback with Paul Sarringhaus of Hamilton, a 195-pounder.

Regular Drill Eased Up and Devoted To Getting Boys In Shape for Bexley

With the signs of old man winter creeping up on them, the Blue Lions of WHS, proceed further into their 1942 football season which has only two more games before closing.

The featherweight team Monday evening resumed practice after a hard fought game last Thursday afternoon in which the Lions defeated the powerful Grandview Bobcats by a score of 7 to 0.

Coaches Jerry Kissell and George Mirabon reminded their boys, that they still have two more games left to play before they can retire till next year. "You can't let down, you have to keep pugging until the very last play," they told them.

A few weeks ago, one of the Lion regulars received a shoulder injury in practice, but with typical determination, he kept on playing.

Before going out on the football field Monday afternoon, Coach Kissell and the squad held a short but impressive session, in which Kissell was the main speaker. He told his boys:

"We have had a few injuries on the team this year, and the only way to avoid more is to get out on that field and get into shape. If you boys have any sore muscles, go home early at night and take a good hot salt water bath. This week, every one of you players should be at home early and not loaf around uptown till late."

100-Yard Punt and 108-Yard Touchdown Only Two of Ohio High School Thrills

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Where, except in the torrid free-for-all being staged by Ohio's 500-odd high school football squads, could you find such things as:

1—A team roaring through 50 games without defeat? (Massillon's terrific Tigers, claimants of the state crown the last seven years, are now at the half-century mark.)

2—A junior fullback scoring 219 points in six games, and 416 in less than three seasons? (Bob Lucas, Paulding's bald-headed Negro star, has that record.)

3—A punter coming up with a 100-yard kick? (Bob Dove of Ashland did it against Gallion last week—his kick dying on the Gallion 10 as he booted from deep in the end zone.)

4—A punt from the three-yard line failing to reach the scrimmage line, although not blocked? (Shelby booted one against Mt. Vernon from its own three, but the ball squirted off at a right angle in the end zone, and Carroll Cosner, Mt. Vernon tackle, fell on it for a touchdown.)

5—A halfback romping for seven touchdowns and an extra point in a single game, but failing to take the day's scoring honors? (Ed Schmidt of Portsmouth Central Catholic did it against Vanceburg, Ky., but Bob Lucas of Paulding "stole the show" with a 46-point spurge against Hicksville, beating Schmidt by three.)

6—A team scoring 120 points in three consecutive games—with a single player getting 117 of the 120? (That's Bob Lucas again, in his last three games.)

7—A team traveling 196 yards for a single touchdown? (Chillicothe did it in beating Cambridge 25-7. Cambridge lost the ball on downs on Chillicothe's 16, and on the first play Bernard Kathe cut through tackle for 84 yards to score, but the ball was called back and Chillicothe penalized to the one-yard line for holding. On the next play John Richardson dropped eight yards into the end zone in punt formation, but ran with the ball and went the full 108 yards for the touchdown.)

8—A team, leading 12-7 with less than a minute to play, losing 13-12 through as "screwy" a set of circumstances as you'll ever witness? (Akron West was the victor, and Akron South the victim. South was out front, when Coach Doc Wargo sent a sub in for an injured player. Two South players came out, and only 10 men were in for the next two plays. Wargo discovered the mistake, sent in an 11th man, but South was penalized to the one-yard line for too many times out, and West drove over for the winning marker. "Doc" claims the touchdown was illegal, but West has the game written in its victory book in extra large letters.)

While all that was going on last week end, the other 18,000 athletes and 500-odd schools were going through the usual routine.

SO GEORGIE WENT ALONG ON A $1,025 RIDE

Presenting the $1,025 ride Jockey George (The Iceman) Woolf enjoyed on Whirlaway in the $10,000 Pimlico invitational race, a "race" in which Whirlay was the only entry. It was winner-take-all and no other entries were dropped into the box at the deadline. Whirlay breezed around the track over the mile and three-sixteenths distance to pick up $10,000 for his owners. Woolf got the $25 jockey fee plus the customary 10 per cent of the purse. It was a "joy ride" and no fooling.

Don Hutson Leads Pros Scoring with 82 Points

CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Don Hutson, Green Bay Packers' pass-snagging end, has boosted his leading national football league scoring total to 82 points and needs only 13 more to equal his record output last year. He still has five games to go.

Age and Family Status Of First Consideration In Ball Player Draft

CHICAGO, Nov. 3.—(AP)—The major leagues, having until mid-night Thursday to finish their claiming of baseball players, already have picked up 20, with an accent on age and family status, in the biggest draft since 1930.

Eighteen officials representing 11 of the 16 major clubs answered the roll call yesterday in Commissioner K. M. Landis' office, spending $139,000 for the material. Fifteen of the score of players called up from the minor leagues formerly played in the majors.

Branch Rickey, founder of the Cardinals' vast farm system and who recently became president of the Brooklyn Dodgers, claimed only one player, catcher Dee C. Moore who batted .306 last season.

Rickey kept mum regarding information on the Dodger management for 1943, leaving several rumors in his wake when he departed.

That's What Coach Says of 'Crazy Legs' Hirsch, the Boy That Is Wisconsin's Whiz-bang

MADISON, Wis., Nov. 3.—(AP)—Some day, probably after the football season, they are going to make Elroy "Crazy Legs" Hirsch stand still long enough for his shadow to catch up with him.

That's how fast this Wisconsin whiz-bang is. The Badgers' six beaten opponents can vouch for that—and Notre Dame, the team Wisconsin tied 7-7, also can add its bit. The sophomore half-back made the all-important touchdown against the Irish—zipping 35 yards to do it.

Hirsch's longest touchdown trip of the season was 63 yards against Great Lakes. Two others have come on 19 and 20-yard dashes.

In all, he has gained 606 yards in 89 tries for a 6.7 rushing average per play.

Probably this Wausau (Wis.) Wriggler's most sensational stunt is shedding tacklers. Five or six men have been known to swarm over him. But he bobs up like a cork in water, leaving his foes clutching only the atmosphere.

Hirsch's freakish leg motion has much to do with his elusiveness.

CRITICISM OF CONGRESS

Most everyone you meet has some theory about whose to blame for this, that and the other thing. Most everyone has a theory on how to win the war, how to stop strikes and how most everything should be done differently. Probably they're all partly right and oftentimes wrong.

Congress has come in for a big measure of this criticism some of which is deserved and some not. We've all said some unpleasant things about Congress and congressmen and most of us meant what we said and do not desire to take back our outspoken criticisms. But there is another side to some of this and undoubtedly some of the criticism has been unfair. This was because we were criticizing what we believed were specific failures and did not give sufficient thought to the general picture of congressional activities in clear perspective.

We still adhere to the thought, however, that Congress, by some of its actions and attitudes, has done itself much harm by not learning the real will of the American people or not actually seeking to find out what is best for the nation. Too much attention to high pressure groups operating in and about Washington, even sometimes government department heads themselves making demands, has been responsible for this to a great extent. And when congressmen take action which damages the prestige of Congress they are encouraging a serious threat to the heart of democracy.

We can not conceive of democracy functioning without a strong, alert, capable, informed, courageous representative legislative branch.

The present Congress as a whole is not considered very strong, or alert, or informed, or courageous. Many congressmen are capable, but Congress as a whole has not won nation-wide confidence. Neither is Congress in the true sense representative.

Many congressmen individually, so far as they can see the light, try to represent those organized groups which have influence in the congressmen's districts, which of course are mostly special interest pressure groups.

But congressmen as a whole do not represent the people of the United States as a whole. Therefore, by a process of log-rolling and mutual backscratching, major legislation is made into a hodgepodge of catch-vote items that in the long run injure the very people they are designed to help.

Here, then, is the offset. We do not feel that this Congress is particularly

Flashes of Life

'Tarazan' Goes to Jail SANTA ANA, Calif.—The legend of a Tarazan-like tree man in this region turned out to be true.

Answering a call to the effect that some creature was climbing backwards up a power pole, Sheriff Elliott sighted a man cavitating atop the 145-foot structure. When the climber finally descended, he proved to be Louis Antonlin, 32, a deaf mute, locally nicknamed Ajax.

Ajax is unable to read or write, so officers have been unable to tell him why he is serving 60 days in jail.

Woman's Shirt Tells Names of Survivors

BEDDING, Calif.—An American woman released by the Japanese after internment in Manila has relieved suspense of at least one family. She had fellow prisoners' photograph her shirt and a closeup of the garment later was published in the United States. On it Lois Linder, Redding nurse, recognized the signature of her brother. It was the first assurance she had that he was alive.

worse than its predecessors in recent times. We do not feel that most congressmen are deliberately and consciously subverting the national interest for selfish reasons—though some obviously are. Over a period of decades Congress has permitted its machinery to deteriorate. Its members have fallen prey to the loudest and most frightening lobbyists.

In the current setting, only a near-genius congressman can constantly follow the straight and narrow path of national interest. Since most members do not approach geniuses, but merely are rather capable specimens of the genius citizen, they go astray much too often.

Washington at a Glance

By Charles P. Stewart

WASHINGTON — Except the government's wartime and related activities, fortune-telling in its various forms, is about the biggest single business in Washington.

It ranges all the way up from the merely superstitious forms of it to something verging on a regular science, whose practitioners take themselves seriously and probably give a certain amount of genuinely good advice in return for the fees they charge.

The capital always has gone in considerably for occultism in its various manifestations. In the very nature of the place, an exceptionally large proportion of its inhabitants and out-of-town visitors in their midst have a lot of intricate problems to puzzle 'em. The local authorities, too, don't treat the wizards and witches as fakirs and vags, as many cities do, but licenses them into a certain sort of official recognition.

And, dating from the beginning of Uncle Sam's war participation, suitable customers for the necromantic profession have swarmed into town at a rate tremendously to stimulate the industry. Girl secretaries, for instance, are very susceptible, and the rapidly increasing demand for the classes of information such gals are desirous of has created the swiftly developing supply of it.

Politicians, Too I'm not so sure that there aren't quite a few hard-boiled politicians, who ordinarily wouldn't be suspected of the least faith in transcendental suggestions, who don't fall for some of these Washington magicians' prognostications.

Of course, these more sophisticated folk aren't impressed by tea leaves or astrology, but I surmise that a few of 'em think there's dope that the practical type of seers are in touch with—genuine political hints, not from the spirit world but obtained by listening at mundane keyholes. Naturally, they do pay any visits of the kind, they don't broadcast it, but snoop in through backdoors or similar posterns.

And possibly they get, thus, an occasional bit of gossip that's helpful to 'em.

There's absolutely no question that the capital's witchery and wizards are swamped with clients. Appointments have to be made way in advance with the experts. The rank and file of them charge about a doctor's fee of $2 or $3 per consultation. A specialist's fee may run up as high as a medical specialist's.

David Rice who describes himself as a "famous psychoanalyst," actually advertises that he has analyzed the Duchess of Windsor, Lady Furness, Princess Maria de Bourbon, Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., and plenty of other celebrated individuals. Maybe he did it without their knowledge that he was doing so. He says he did it, though, announces it in print, and I haven't seen it contradicted.

Peekers into futurity, it appears, literally are overworked. Their hours are so long that they have to be on the jobs night and Sundays.

It would appear that the readings who passed out are accurate, moreover, for "Satisfaction guaranteed or no charge," says the average announcement.

I understand they collect on the spot, however.

Many Are Roving

There are, to be sure, a great many soothsayers who don't bother with formal headquarters, especially, read palms and pull off such stunts, but they're not the aristocracy of the profession. The tony ones have big apartments, with appointment-offices and big, elaborate reception rooms.

These places are thick in Washington. As bosses of 'em, women predominate. Nevertheless, men are mixed into the number.

My own notion is that the women supply most of the personal predictions for their lady clients' benefit, whereas the masculine contingent doubtless dishes out the bulk of the truly political guesswork of the male contingent.

There are men in the gang, though, to whomsoever they may cater.

District of Columbia records testify to it. They include a few percent of gents in the classification with local seers.

The ladies, however, seem more inclined to be recognized than the men do, among the occult bunch. The gents like to rate as "political advisers." The ladies are quite willing to figure as non-political prophets.

Serious War Health Problem in Shifting of Population

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

WHENEVER there is a great shifting of population, there arise, ipso facto, new health problems. The United States is facing such a situation now.

When shifting of population occurs in disorganized districts, such as the terrain of war-torn Europe and Asia, the result, as it needs only a glance at history to show, is likely to be a flare-up of world wide epidemics—the black death, cholera, and just yesterday, malignant influenza.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Here, where no such real dislocation has occurred—no bombing of water supplies, sewage disposal plants, no destruction of existing housing or serious disruption of medical service or food supply—we need anticipate nothing of that kind, but we should bend all our energies to see to it that in every possible way health agencies should be reinforced, augmented, preserved and stabilized.

Housing Problem

Unquestionably the most serious situation created by the emergency is the housing problem. Actual, not imaginary, instances of cities with a population of 15,000 in 1940 now having 30,000, and still growing. Housing, plumbing, sewage disposal for this addition is going on. Approximately 440,000 new dwelling units are occupied, or in construction at the present time.

Local health authorities should be, but often are not, consulted about these projects. In one Eastern city a new residential development went up until it was found all the cellars were flooded. This could have been avoided by draining the swamp which was below the building site the strangers picked out. Local authorities should also be supported by public opinion in preventing mercenary activities.

A shifting population brings with it the menace of the disease carrier—typhoid, diphtheria, smallpox, meningitis, etc. For the first three mentioned, individual vaccination is fully protective and every citizen has a duty to have himself or herself now vaccinated in that way.

Medical care is provided in many housing communities by having clinics established on the grounds, thus avoiding the necessity of a long bus trip and possibly additional walk to the hospital facilities in town. Temporary but adequate hospitals on the grounds are also provided in some places. The more of this that is done, the better.

Hospital and medical care, with the shortage due to the demands of the armed forces, does not seem to me as pressing as it has to others. We have had quite an oversupply of both during the past decade and if hospital rooms and doctors are now reserved only for absolutely necessary illness, I believe little serious injustice will be done. Let the neurotics weep at the wailing wall.

In the newly expanded industrial communities this is a much more serious problem. One important point is that state medical boards should for the emergency forego their examinations if they want older physicians, who are the only ones available and who can not be expected to be able to pass the tests on basic subjects, to come to their new communities.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS J. V.:—Can sinus drain into one's chest? What are the symptoms? Answer: Chronic nasal infection frequently drains into the chest causing a generalized bronchitis with symptoms of cough, expectoration and frequent "colds."

WRITTEN FOR AND RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

CHAPTER TWENTY-ONE

BEHIND locked doors of the Nordex executive offices there was "the devil to pay" about the crash of the test plane.

"We're going to get to the bottom of the trouble around here if we have to investigate every employee in Nordex," John Danver had exploded.

"You'll have 100 per cent co-operation from me," the president of Nordex said grimly. "A few more of these little 'accidents' like the explosion and the tampered plane will affect the morale of the whole plant."

A full report had been made of the plane. Between the time of the final checking and its take-off in the test flight, wires had been wrapped around the terminals in the junction box. A clear case of sabotage—and an inside job. Every mechanic was under fire, as well as the three test pilots.

Of the three, however, the case against Bruce Martin was darkest. He had been around the hangars for three days, watching that plane waiting for its final checking. He had been there that last afternoon. And then he had picked a quarrel with the boss and gotten himself out of flying it at the last minute.

Bruce was called in and faced with these damaging facts. He listened, tight-lipped, bitter.

"Fat chance I'd have to touch a plane," he said when his time came for defending himself. "The way I'm watched every time I get near that hangar. Of course," he added derisively as he looked around the circle of cold-eyed officials and F. B. I. men, "I'm smart. I'm tricky and awfully clever."

This was hardly the time for humor. Mr. Martin, the president of Nordex remarked curtly.

John Danver, seated at the president's right at the long conference table, eyed Bruce levelly. "A friend of yours, a young girl who works in the personnel department, just happened to be on the spot at the time of the crash. The incident affected her so that she fainted. Can you account for this? The possibility of such a crash couldn't have been preying on her mind, could it?"

Bruce gave a disgusted laugh. "Sure," he said. "I'd been telling her how I was going to fix that plane every night for weeks. Bed-time stories."

Bruce's sarcasm grew heavier as his fury deepened. By the time his interview was over, he had succeeded in alienating every official in the room. When he had been dismissed, heavy silence was followed by a burst of accusations. Danver pushed back his chair abruptly and left the room.

He caught up with Bruce in the corridor and gave him a sharp calling down for his attitude.

"If you believe you're going to slide out of this just because you're the best test pilot," he said, "you're dead wrong. Bruce I wish you'd get it through that lame brain of yours that you're in serious trouble. If you don't start defending yourself—"

"What's eating you, frozen face?" Bruce cut in. "You losing your grip? Haven't you got enough dope on me yet?"

He turned and went on, leaving Danver glaring angrily after him. What was he doing, anyway, begging a guy with as much against him as Martin, to try and clear himself? Slowly he went back to the conference room. The investigation progressed. Every clew uncovered in the weeks of intensive effort against the mysterious sabotage ring operating within the great walls of Nordex, was examined again. Every suspect was called in for questioning or discussed thoroughly.

Two men had been caught and were in the penitentiary, but had been of little help in rounding up the ring. They were only stooges. A third had escaped after an attempted bombing. It was in his ransacked room they had found the brief, typewritten note of instructions mailed from one of the motion picture studios. On the front of it had been stamped the advertisement of the coming stellar film of the studio.

Upon this slight coincidence Bruce Martin had been called into the F. B. I. office the first time. A routine questioning because of his friendship with an actress from this studio. His bitter antagonism, together with the fact that the string of sabotage incidents continued, had kept him coming back for questioning. And slowly the web of suspicion had been tightening about him until today it seemed about to close over his head.

Danver alone was holding out against immediate arrest on charges of espionage.

"The evidence is strong," he admitted, "but it's still too circumstantial to suit me. I'd like to wait several days anyway, and keep our eyes on him. Once he's in the pen, he's no help to us in getting to any of the rest of the gang."

The others argued, but Danver stuck to his guns. While he was in charge, he'd run the investigation his way.

The next day was Sunday. With the temperamental speed of California winters, the cold weather broke into a day of warm sunshine.

Ken and Burke arrived at the door of their apartment before Mary and Fran were awake, pounded until the girls could get into dressing gowns and let them in.

"Good heavens," Fran scolded, "I thought it was the Japs!"

The men were loaded with bags of groceries, which they took out to the kitchen.

"We're going to Laguna for that picnic Mary suggested about eight years ago," Ken explained. "We stopped on the way over and picked up the lunch. We'll get your breakfasts while you make the sandwiches."

"Do you feel like it, Mary?" Fran worried. "You haven't been any too stout since that fainting stunt you pulled."

"I'm wonderful," Mary retorted. She pulled up the shade above the sink, and exclaimed at the sparkling beauty of the morning. "I can't understand these sudden bursts of spring in the middle of winter," she laughed, feasting her gaze on the brilliant blue of the ocean with its white, glistening beach. "I'd love to see Laguna. It's the artists' beach, isn't it?"

Ken was beside her, taking out the sacks, sandwich bread, minced olives, cheese, sliced roast chicken. "We're going to go some place new every Sunday," he promised. "That is, until the gasoline rationing goes into effect. Why come clear to California and miss the sights?"

He grinned at Mary with boyish eagerness and she smiled back. Good old Ken. He was doing this to keep her interested and happy, helping her to build a life of her own apart from the troubled existence she had known since meeting the fascinating but stormy test pilot. Ken was a real friend.

Breakfast over, the men washed up the dishes while Mary and Fran slipped into their bright black suits.

"All aboard!" Ken shouted, as he and Burke carried the basket of lunch and the thermos jug out to the car.

Mary and Fran locked the apartment door and followed with Fran's new portable radio. Fran turned it on as they started down the hall. A tenor was carolling an old song. Fran and Mary exchanged a glance of surprise and broke into laughter. They came out of the building to the strains of "Everything Is Blue Skies From Now On."

They saw Ken and Burke standing beside the car, the lunch baskets stowed inside. They were frowning as they looked at the car ahead. The two girls followed their gaze.

Bruce Martin was just climbing out of his low gray car.

OHIO IS OVER MONTH'S QUOTA

Champaign County Exceeds Quota by 226 Percent During Month

Final official tabulations of Ohio September War Bond sales by the Federal Reserve Bank in Cleveland revealed the month's total to be $48,624,499.75 rather than the $44,504,000 figure reported previously. Harold H. Bredlow, executive secretary of the War Savings staff for Ohio, announced today.

Bredlow said the September total included $33,796,281.25 sales of Series E War Bonds, $2,630,718.50 in the F series, and $12,197,500 in the G series.

As a result of the quota-breaking sales total, Ohio was 10.5 percent over its quota for the month, while the nation as a whole was 8.2 percent over quota.

Paced by Champaign County that exceeded its month's quota by 226 percent, 50 Ohio counties went "over the top" in the month's campaign, according to Bredlow.

In addition to Champaign, these counties were Ashland, Ashtabula, Athens, Auglaize, Belmont, Carroll, Clinton, Columbiana, Coshocton, Darke, Fairfield, Fulton, Gallia, Geauga, Guernsey, Hancock,

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Wendell L. Willkie says Palestine will have to be opened to the homeless Jews of central and eastern Europe who survive the war and "the extent of that emigration must be measured by the needs of the Jewish people."

In a telegram to a mass meeting observing the 25th anniversary of the Balfour Declaration by England, Willkie said yesterday that the "case of the Jews for a national home" has always rested upon historic rights and international law.

THAD PHIBBS' house got struck by lightning a couple of nights ago. The kitchen chimney was knocked off and the roof set on fire, and Thad found things pretty lively and exciting for a spell.

The fire was soon out though, thanks to the prompt and efficient work of the local fire department, as the paper says . . . and I never seen a man so grateful as Thad.

Chief Ed Carey was sort of embarrassed, I guess, by the thanks that was heaped on him.

"That's all right, Mr. Phibbs," he says. "That's all right, sir—that's what you pay taxes for."

From where I sit, I'd say Chief Ed's remark seems to have a lesson in it . . . a lesson on the way that taxes come back in mighty real benefits to the people.

Take the taxes on beer, for instance—more than 2½ billion dollars, I hear, figurin' federal, state and local, in the nine years since beer's been back.

There was a time—remember—when a lot of that money went into the pockets of bootleggers and

Some goes, for example, to pay for the things Uncle Sam needs to fight the war with . . . for tanks and ships and bombers.

Quite a lot goes for things like public health, and education, and good roads and the like.

And some of it, I surmise, has gone to support the fire company that gave Thad such good service, the other night.

To moderate folks, who like a friendly glass of beer now and then, there's a sort of satisfaction in knowing that right now this beverage of moderation is furnishin' the public treasuries well over a million dollars every single day.

That's quite a lot of money—especially nowadays when Uncle Sam needs every cent he can get hold of.

Daughters of American Revolution Hold Ellis Island Meeting with Junior Chapter

The Washington Court House chapter of the Daughters of the American Revolution held its November meeting, Monday afternoon, with a large attendance of members assembling in the Federated Club room. Mrs. Frank Michael, the regent, conducted the usual opening exercises and a short business session and then turned the program over to Mrs. Robert P. Wilson, chairman of the Martha Washington Junior Chapter.

Mrs. Wilson made gracious remarks and introduced Mrs. Paul Fitzwater who presented a double trio of young high school girls, singing very harmoniously, "Any Bonds Today?"

Two other junior members, Mrs. Robert Haigler and Mrs. Richard Rankin, presented a very clever skit, "Every Penny Counts," which was greatly appreciated.

Mrs. George Robinson, Sr., very clearly told the group of the Southwest District meeting, which was held in October in Clearville. She submitted two appeals which the organization agreed unanimously upon. One was to aid in the "Scholarship for the Mountain School," and the other "Rewarping a Loom at Ellis Island."

Attention was stressed by Mrs. Michael to the dime bank for the Marysville, Tenn. foundation.

Thirty-one members of the Phi Beta Psi Sorority gathered at the Devins Party Home Monday evening, when Mrs. Paul Strevey, Mrs. J. H. Persinger, Mrs. W. Earl Parker, Mrs. John Sagar, Mrs. Ronald Cornwell and Miss Laura Schadel entertained them for their regular business meeting and social hour.

Miss Helen Hutson, the president, conducted the lengthy business meeting, at which time, plans were made for the Christmas party to be held on December 14.

In helping in the aid of selling War Saving Stamps, the sorority has sponsored booths at both Craig Brothers and the J. C. Penney Co., on Saturdays. At this time it was decided to just have one booth, being centrally located in the uptown area, and to be at Craig's.

The enjoyable social hour that followed the business, was most delightful, with bridge keenly contested. High score award went to Miss Clara Story.

A most tempting and delicious salad course was served at the close of the evening, the guests seated at small tables.

60 miles away on the military road leading to the Georgian Pass through the Caucasian Mountains.

The army newspaper Red Star said the Germans, weakened by enormous losses at Stalingrad, were unable to mount a general offensive in the Caucasus and were throwing their full available strength into the comparatively local advance below Nalchik.

At Stalingrad, Red army counterattacks threw the Germans out of several buildings in a northside factory district, dispatches said.

to rescue their corraled units. But the communists said all these attacks were turned back and the British grip was maintained.

Allied concentrations of artillery and machineguns therefore were able to dominate the area.

Bombers scored direct hits on two Axis destroyers in the Mediterranean southwest of Crete and fired a medium sized merchant vessel and possibly hit a smaller one in an attack on a convoy northwest of Tobruk, it was announced.

As commander in chief of the armed forces and as president of a people united against the Axis enemy, Mr. Roosevelt can claim the unwavering support of every loyal citizen.

But he also is cast in another character. He is the political leader of a government compelled by war to uproot the normal way of life and inflict the inevitable bruises of a war economy.

In this role Mr. Roosevelt cannot be wholly separated from the party label on congressional ballots cast today. If the voters in any appreciable numbers decide to replace Democrats with members of another party, a share of the dissatisfaction thus expressed public disinterest. What they admitted looked like "cinches" and "runaway races" in the early days of the campaign, they later reappraised with a growing belief that "anything can happen."

Record-Herald on Job

In view of the luke warm public attitude and the country's shrinking production of paper, there will be no Record-Herald "election extra." However, the complete returns will be assembled in the Record-Herald news room election night, as has long been the custom, and announced over a loud speaker system in front of the office. Bulletins will be announced as the returns come in from the county voting precinct by precinct, with cumulative totals at intervals. The announcements also will cover the voting for state officials through Associated Press reports.

Ohio Chooses Officials

Ohio chose its leaders of government today in an election that was expected to attract not more than 1,750,000 voters.

Such a turnout would be only half that of two years ago and the smallest since 1920. The citizenry apparently has been too preoccupied with war to give much attention to a campaign in which candidates argued about such issues as a state surplus, cooperation in the war effort, and grants of state money to local subdivisions.

The chief interest was in the gubernatorial race between John W. Bricker, a Republican seeking his third term, and John McSweeney, a former Democratic representative-at-large. All other state officers excepting the auditor, also were up for election as well as a representative-at-large, 22 representatives, supreme court and appellate judges and members of the legislature.

Other States Vote, Too Upwards of 30,000,000 war-minded Americans exercise today the right and privilege for which their sons and brothers now are fighting and dying again—the right to shape their own government.

In the first war-time election since 1918, the voters cast ballots to determine the political complexion of the new Congress starting in January and two-thirds of the 43 state administrations.

The Democrats, holding comfortable majorities in Senate and House and 28 of the present governorships, expected some net losses. But even the Republicans themselves laid no claims to an upset that would give them control of the House, where their chances were conceded to be the best. The Republicans needed 53 new seats to gain a majority—218—but claimed only from 29 to 35. The Democrats conceded a net loss of no more than 15.

Control Not Threatened Democratic control of the Senate was not threatened. Republicans claimed all the governorships in the key states, including New York, but Democrats challenged their claims.

Except for a contest here and there in which so-called "isolationism" figured, local issues predominated in a campaign more notable for its preoccupation with the war than with politics.

Maine, the only state not voting today, held its election last September 14, choosing a governor, senator and three House members, all Republicans.

Test for Roosevelt To President Roosevelt, who has dominated American politics for a decade, today's election brings not only the first voter reaction to conduct of the war, but, to a degree, a new check-up on his national popularity.

As commander in chief of the armed forces and as president of a people united against the Axis enemy, Mr. Roosevelt can claim the unwavering support of every loyal citizen.

But he also is cast in another character. He is the political leader of a government compelled by war to uproot the normal way of life and inflict the inevitable bruises of a war economy.

In this role Mr. Roosevelt cannot be wholly separated from the party label on congressional ballots cast today. If the voters in any appreciable numbers decide to replace Democrats with members of another party, a share of the dissatisfaction thus expressed

Still in the Fight!

Though he lost an arm and his legs were riddled by machine gun bullets during the Pearl Harbor attack, Master Sgt. Sidney C. Howe, above, refused to be retired. Howe raised such strenuous objections when an attempt was made to remove him from active duty that the Army gave in and he is now a radio operator for the Fourth Army Air Communications. He wears a silver star for bravery.

probably would thread back to the national party leadership. That leadership is and has been since 1932 Mr. Roosevelt.

AXIS HOLLERS NUFF IN MALTA BATTLE

LONDON, Nov. 3.—(AP)—The Air Ministry described the mid-October air battle over the Malta today as a "deliberate trial of strength" by the Axis and said that the enemy, with 138 planes shot down, had suffered such a disaster he had to call quits after 10 days.

Besides 132 planes shot down by fighters defending the Mediterranean Island stronghold, the Air Ministry said, seven others fell to anti-aircraft gunners and many more probably were destroyed.

84 PERSONS ARE SAVED AFTER FREIGHTERS SUNK

FUNCHAL, Madeira Island, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Eighty-four survivors of British freighters torpedoed in the Atlantic have been landed here, it was announced today.

The survivors said the ships sunk were part of a convoy attacked by Axis submarines about 140 miles off the Canary Islands.

TANK OUTPUT CLIMBS IN RUSSIAN FACTORIES

MOSCOW, Nov. 3.—(AP)—Despite the fact the Stalingrad tractor plant was not in operation, the Soviet tank industry produced more tanks in October than in September and exceeded its quota, a Tass report said today.

The aviation industry also turned out more planes and motors than in September and exceeded its October quota, the report said.

The General Assembly of Rhode Island adopted May 4, 1776, four months before the American Declaration of Independence, a resolution renouncing allegiance to the British king and government. The vote was almost unanimous.

No Gasoline Card If Excess Tires Are Retained

MUST TURN IN ALL OVER FIVE TIRES TO CAR

Such Action Must Be Taken Before Rationing Card Issued

All auto owners who have more than five tires for each car they own must turn in the excess tires to the government before they can obtain a gasoline rationing card, and gasoline rationing cards are to be issued November 12, 13 and 14.

If such tires are not turned in, and the owner falsifies in order to obtain a gasoline rationing card, he is punishable by a heavy fine under the war time legislation enacted to enforce rationing.

The Railway Express Company is picking up all such extra tires when notified, and when turned in the government pays the amount of value placed upon such tires after they are inspected.

Many motorists have the idea that they have weeks or even months in which to turn in their extra tires, but such is not the case. It is a matter of a few days, according to Tolien E. Brown of the Fayette County Rationing Board.

Motorists are asked to keep their five best tires and sell the others to the government. All that is necessary is to call the Railway Express Agency and state that the extra tires are ready to be picked up, and the expressman will call for them.

However, if owners wait until the last minute, they may find it difficult to have the express company pick up the tires on time, due to the rush.

Already scores of such tires have been turned in to the Express Company office here, and will go into the big stock pile that is to help keep America on rubber.

Those who own extra tires and decide they will not part with them, will find themselves without gasoline to operate their cars with the five tires permitted.

The American public has shown a tremendous willingness to do anything specific for which it is given a good reason. The reason this time is to prolong the time that people may use their cars with the tires on hand, and help provide a stockpile from which to draw when additional tires are needed.

Kelly-Tanner Vows Exchanged November 1st

A wedding, beautiful in its simplicity, took place at the Methodist Parsonage in Jeffersonville Sunday evening at six o'clock when Miss Dorothea Margaret Tanner, daughter of Mrs. Joseph Tanner, was united in marriage to Mr. William Nelson Kelly, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ora Kelly, of the Jamestown Road.

The single ring service was read by Rev. E. R. Rector, pastor of the Jeffersonville Methodist Church with Mr. and Mrs. John Willard Morgan as sole attendants.

The bride, who is one of distinct brunette beauty, was lovely in a soldier blue gown with matching accessories and carrying a corsage of pink talisman roses.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the grooms parents for the attendants and the immediate family. Later in the evening the happy couple left, amid good wishes and felicitations for a motoring trip.

The former Miss Tanner, a graduate of the Jeffersonville High School in 1940 has been employed at the Merchant Credit Bureau in Dayton.

The groom graduated from the Bloomingburg High School in 1939 and has been engaged in farming. Upon their return they will reside with the groom's parents for the present time.

Anniversary Celebration

The fourteenth wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Barnes was delightfully celebrated recently at their home.

The guests were seated in the dining room which was prettily decorated with fall flowers for the serving of a delicious turkey dinner.

Friends called throughout the afternoon and evening and many lovely gifts were received by Mr. and Mrs. Barnes. Out-

Party for Cadet Harold Twining

A very happy occasion was held on Monday evening, when the congregation of the First Baptist Church held a covered dish supper and get-together for Cadet Harold Twining, the son of their new pastor, Rev. and Mrs. H. B. Twining, who is at his home here from Iowa State University, Iowa City, Ia.

The church home was the setting for the most enjoyable affair, and was beautifully decorated in a patriotic theme. The party was a sequel to the reception the church held for the Twining two weeks previous, as the young honored guest was unable to be present at that meeting.

After the sumptuous supper, the remainder of the evening was spent in games and merry-making.

VIOLETS STILL BLOOM IN EARLY NOVEMBER

Violets are still blooming in this part of Ohio, regardless of 18 degree temperatures late in October.

Not only have the common blue violets been found but the striped violet (viola striata) have also been found in bloom this week.

Local botanists Sunday also found wild hazel in bloom in the hill regions south of this city, the shrub being the only one that blooms during the fall months.
